

6-year term option at-a-glance

Downside protection with growth potential

Lincoln Level Advantage® indexed variable annuity

Many consumers prefer a simple approach to maintaining a balanced portfolio. With Lincoln Level Advantage, money they've allocated to an indexed account allows clients to keep any growth, up to a performance cap, and have a level of protection to help guard against market losses.

Why a 6-year term option might be right for you?

You're nearing retirement, but don't expect to need this money for six years

Your priority is shifting toward protecting your money

You still want opportunities to continue growing your money

Initial investment	$100,000
Indexed account	S&P 500®
Term	6-year
Level of protection	20%
Performance cap	80%
Ending balance	$175,000

For a 6-year term, interest is credited at the end of the term. Interest credited is determined by the percentage change in the index value from the start to end date as adjusted by the level of protection or the performance cap.

Below is a hypothetical example of how a 6-year term works. In this case, your performance was the same as the index.

Index return

75%

LLA return

75%

Example is for illustrative purposes only. The example assumes the hypothetical performance cap for the 6-year term is 80% and the protection level (the amount of market loss Lincoln will absorb) is 20%. A new cap is declared for each additional term. In the event of market growth, the value will grow up to the cap at a rate based on the market index chosen. If the negative return is in excess of the protection level, there is a risk of loss of principal. Performance cap rates are declared weekly and will vary based on the index, term, protection level, and optional death benefit selected.

Indexed accounts are tied to market performance but are not actual investments in the stock market. You cannot invest directly in an index.

Withdrawals and transfers will adversely impact the value of the indexed segment. See prospectus for details.
